

"This is a reminder... that the life you want, will cost the life you have."

"You can't wish for growth, and not expect change.

You can't ask for progress, and not expect pain.

You can't desire success, and not expect sacrifice.

So, when the weight feels heavy and the sacrifices stack up... just realize this isn't punishment. It's the price."

"Growing up, I often heard people say that the ego is dangerous. Something to be controlled, or subdued. But I learned the hard way that my ego—my inner drive—is my strength.

It was that ego that pushed me to stand up after every failure. It ignites fire in me to prove my worth."

"When the world around you isn't following your plan, the only way to fix it, is to fix you.

If I can't see the light that leads to the goal... then I need to become the light."

"My introduction is not what is important today. My work is.

I am the Head Captain of this school. I am not here just to follow any orders—I am here to do what is necessary and helpful for my school."

"A very good evening to our respected Principal, Chief guests, Parents, teachers, and my dear friends.

My name is [Say Your Full Name]. Thank you."
